Taylor, Anderson to vie in congressional runoff

BY D.C. HARVILL
Democratic State Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis and Republican Tom Anderson are paired in an October 17 runoff for the Fifth District Congressional seat.

Taylor claimed 42 percent of the votes cast in Tuesday's special election, while Anderson received 32 percent. State Attorney General Mike Moore, a Democrat, trailed a distant third with 21 percent of the vote.

While Taylor garnered the most votes, Anderson carried the vote in most of the 12 counties in the district.

In Hancock, 66 percent of the returns were for Taylor and 24 percent went to Anderson.

Taylor drew most of his support on the Coast, including Anderson's home county, Harrison, where he took 54 percent of the vote.

In Hancock County, Diamondhead was the only precinct carried by Anderson.

The special election is to fill the vacancy left by the death of late Congressman Larkin Smith, who died in an August 13 plane crash.

"We are just thrilled about the way things turned out. I feel like something I've dreamed about for years has come true—that the people, not the power brokers in Washington, should elect a person to represent them," Taylor said Wednesday.

Taylor, who ran a small-budget campaign, compared to his competition, has been outspoken about having drawn most of his financial support from within the district.

Anderson's Hancock County

Campaign manager, John Auderer Jr., said he is pleased with the results in the county and is surprised that Moore did not have a better showing.

"I am well pleased with what we did in Hancock County, but I was disappointed with Harrison and Jackson. I feel like Mr. Taylor ran a real good race. I would like to be in his position at this time, but the game's not over until the last out," Auderer said.

"It's going to be a challenge," he concluded.

In a concession speech Tuesday evening, Moore said the people wanted him to complete his term as attorney general.

During the speech, Moore threw his support to Taylor.

"We have two more weeks of hard work. They say you run unopposed or you run scared—we're running scared," Taylor said.

Argument ends in death of man

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Bay St. Louis man remains in the Hancock County Justice Facility charged with murder after an argument ended in the shooting death of a fellow Bay man Monday evening.

When police responded to a 911 emergency call at 202 Watts St. shortly before 10 p.m. Monday, they found William "Blood" Carter Sr. lying in the street with a gunshot wound to the chest, according to Investigator Tom Burleson.

Carter was pronounced dead on arrival at Hancock Medical Center.

At the hospital it was determined Carter had been shot four times with a small caliber handgun, once in the chest, once in the left thigh and twice in the back, Burleson said.

At approximately 2 a.m. Tuesday, Victor Glen Maurice, 39, 714 St. Francis St., surrendered himself into the hands of the law at the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, Burleson said.

According to a witness, a member of Carter's family, Maurice knocked on the door and asked Carter to step outside, he wanted to talk to him in private. An argument then ensued, Burleson said.

The witness heard three gunshots and, upon going outside, saw Carter running down the street. Maurice was headed in the opposite direction, shooting toward Carter as he ran, the investigator said.

After the shooting, Maurice called his parents from Gulfport and they convinced him to return to Bay St. Louis and turn himself in, according to Burleson.

Police do not know what the argument was about, but there is no indication that it was drug related, the investigator said.

The shooting is still under investigation.

Maurice, a carpenter, remains in Hancock County Justice Facility in lieu of a $50,000 bond. He was scheduled for an initial court appearance Wednesday evening.

A run-off election will be held on Oct. 17 between Gene Taylor, Democrat, and Tom Anderson, Republican. In unofficial returns Taylor received 51,383 votes, Anderson 45,623 and Mike Moore 24,497. ## County personnel policy approved in draft form

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has voted to accept a proposed personnel manual for its employees.

The board of supervisors voted to accept the manual on Monday, but that acceptance is not final because the manual is only in draft form and revisions can still be made.

Employees have 30 days in which to examine and comment on the manual, with a hearing to be set on the matter if any response is received. Comments can be dropped off at the board office.

The manual was prepared as part of Hancock County's compliance with recent county government reorganization legislation. The policies are designed to provide a standardized system of personnel administration and apply to all county employees.

The document deals with recruitment, hiring, advancement and termination of employees, compensation, training, fair treatment, treatment of employees with regard to political matters and other items.

The new manual is to be for all county employees. Previously, matters addressed by the document were handled under separate policies for each department, with not all departments having their policies available in written form.

The new policies drew some criticism from Hancock County Tax Collector and Assessor Edward Murtagh, who called the document "weighty and cumbersome" and said he felt the board should provide the policies in such a form that "you wouldn't need an attorney beside you to read it."

He also stated that he feels the new document takes away from the authority of an elected official with regard to his particular office and staff.

The board meets again Oct. 13 at 9 a.m. in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Enhanced 911

Board split on ASRM question

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has declined an opportunity to ask for more input on NASA's Advanced Solid Rocket Motor project.

Beat Three Supervisor Lisa Coward, who has publicly stated concerns about the possible environmental effects of locating the ASRM at Stennis Space Center, asked board members Monday to request more input from Congressmen Trent Lott and Thad Cochran, as well as the winner of an upcoming run-off election between State Senator Gene Taylor and former Trent Lott chief of staff Tom Anderson.

"I'm not asking you to condone or condemn. I'm asking you to request additional input from them," she said. "They represent Hancock County on a different level than we do, but they still represent Hancock County."

"They may even know something that could be beneficial to us or beneficial in the permitting process," she added.

ON PATROL

DRUG ARREST

A Diamondhead woman has been arrested on drug-related charges.

Natalie N. Koenenn, 27, of 108102 Koloa St., was arrested at about 5:30 p.m. Monday, Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong said.

She was charged with attempting to possess a controlled substance, which Strong said consisted of a quarter-ounce of cocaine.

Koenenn was released from the Hancock County jail on $5,000 bond.

Items seized in addition to the cocaine included $250 in cash and a 1979 Corvette.

EMBEZZLEMENT

A clerk at a Kiln convenience store has been arrested on embezzlement charges.

Mary Ann Barbeta, 22, a clerk at the Majik Market on Highway 603, was arrested by Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Nathan Hoda Monday afternoon.

The arrested was made after the store's manager, watching her on a monitor, witnessed her taking money, Hoda said.

According to Hoda, it is not known exactly how much money was taken by Barbeta.

She admitted to taking approximately $40 and a carton of cigarettes, but according to the store manager more was taken, Hoda said.

Barbeta, who had been employed at the store for three weeks, is being held in Hancock County Justice Facility on a $5,000 bond.

ST. ANN CHURCH NEWS

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Justin Furman, ST.

Good Morning, God
 You are ushering in another day,
 Untouched and freshly new.
 So here I come to ask you,
 God,

If you'll renew me too.
 Forgive the many errors
 That I made yesterday
 And let me try again, dear Lord,

To walk closer in Thy way.
 But, Father, I am well aware,
 I can't make it on my own,
 So take my hand and hold it tight,

For I can't walk alone.
 —Helen Steiner Rice
 According to Suzette Ladner, CYO adult advisor, she is happy to report the Teen Dance this past Saturday in the parish hall was a big success with everyone having a great time. Many thanks to all who supported this most recent CYO endeavor.

Another reminder: Registration for the CCD classes (1989-1990) is scheduled for this Saturday, Oct. 7 in the parish hall. Children to be registered must be accompanied by their parents.

Confirmation class is 4 p.m. this Saturday, the first Saturday of the month, in the parish hall.

Choir practice is 6 p.m. each Thursday, St. Ann Church before the 7 p.m. evening mass. New members are always welcome.

St. Ann-St. John Altar Society members will meet in a body during the 5 p.m. Vigil Mass at St. Ann Church this Saturday.

Coast Electric members meeting slated October 12

Coast Electric Power Association will hold its annual members meeting on Thursday, Oct. 12 at the Hancock County Community Center (formerly the fairgrounds building). The center is located on Longfellow Road in Bay St. Louis.

General Manager Robert Occhi encourages all members to attend.

"Annual meetings are the backbone of a cooperative business," he said. "Our meeting allows us to personally meet with members and talk with them about the progress and future of the association."

"It's very much like the barn raising gatherings of years ago where neighbors came together for a common purpose. Coast Electric members who attend the meeting are actively participating in their business. They make suggestions, ask questions and obtain information. Their participation helps guide our operation," Occhi said.

Registration for members will begin at 5:30 p.m. and continues until 7 p.m. The general business session will begin at 7 p.m. followed by reports from Occhi and other officers of the board.

Attendance prizes include a 19-inch color television, a ceiling fan and a food processor. These items will be given to registered members in a special drawing immediately following the business session.

Coast Electric members who may need more information or assistance in getting to the meeting should contact their local Coast Electric office for assistance.

Coast Electric is a member-owned, non-profit electric cooperative which serves more than 40,000 consumers in the counties of Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River.

Keesler prepares for annual open house

In a departure from previous years, 1989 will be the year of the first Gulf Coast Joint Armed Forces Open House at Keesler.

The event is scheduled 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 7. Gates open at 7:30 a.m.

Previous open house events at Keesler have been primarily base functions with the emphasis on the Air Force. This year, the event is being renamed and expanded to "include as many of the military activities and installations on the Gulf Coast as possible," said Major Jeffrey Ricks, project officer.

To date, the major said, invitations to participate have been extended to the John C. Stennis Space Center and Naval Oceanographic Office, both in Bay St. Louis; Naval Construction Battalion Center, Gulfport; 8th U.S. Coast Guard District, New Orleans; New Orleans

Naval Air Station; Ingalls Shipbuilding, Pascagoula; and Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air Station.

"Some of the aircraft on display during Open House include the C-5 the largest aircraft in the United States, C-141B, C-21, C-9, A-10 'Tank-killer,' P-3, four types of 130 aircraft (C, WC, EC and AC), T-43, T-37 and a variety of helicopters," Major Ricks said.

There are also some plans for aircraft to make passes over the base for the crowds to review.

Lots of food and entertainment is on the schedule during the day. There are numerous displays of high-technology equipment used at the participating bases.

Architects compete for winning design in Vietnam Vets Memorial competition

Architects across the region are competing to be a part of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial to be built on the Gulf Coast. The winning design will be announced in May, 1990.

Henry J. Cook, chairman of the Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Memorial Committee, B. B. Archer, president of the Mississippi Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and Martha Hill, president, Mississippi Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects announced an architectural competition to design the memorial.

The three organizations are sponsoring the competition. First-stage submissions are due in January and the winning design will be announced next May.

The Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Committee was formed in November, 1988, to create a living, teaching memorial to honor all Mississippi Vietnam Veterans. The proposed site is a point of land near Biloxi on the Gulf Coast. The site was dedicated on Veterans Day 1988.

Designs for the memorial began taking shape when the Memorial Committee asked Mississippi State University's School of Architecture for design ideas. Students then presented nine models from which several themes have been adopted for use in the final design.

Those themes include a tribute to all who served in Vietnam with special emphasis on women and minorities; recognition of the struggle of the Vietnamese people; listing the names and ages of 639 Mississippians who were killed in Vietnam and the 16 who are still missing. The final design must connect land, sea and air to represent all branches of the armed forces.

"We are pleased to have professionals (AIA and ASLA) helping the committee with this competition," said Cook. "We anticipate some very exciting designs from our state's most talented architects."

A poster, designed by Jackson graphic artist Chuck Gale, will be used as the competition call for entries. The poster illustration is of a foot soldier with the state outline in the background.

Three designs will be chosen for further work and each architectural firm will receive $5,000 to complete a model. The memorial design will be announced in the spring with construction to begin early in 1991.

Governor Ray Mabus signed legislation in March 1989 authorizing the creation of the memorial on the Coast and gave authority to the Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Memorial Committee, Inc. to collect funds for the memorial.

Counties and municipalities also can donate to the memorial from general funds. A broad-based committee of concerned individuals is working to make the memorial a reality.

For more information about the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, contact Cook at 466-4371.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The annual Air Show sponsored by Chapter 467 of the Experimental Air Craft Association and Gulf Coast Race Association will be held on Saturday and Sunday at the Stennis Airport in Hancock County.

Michael Smith of Bay St. Louis, president of the association, is really excited about the addition of the air races this year.

There will be a wide variety of airplanes on display, including antique and home-built aircraft and military. Military aircraft will come from several air stations and air bases.

Of special interest to the youngsters will be the quarter-scale radio controlled airplane demonstrations.

Gates will open at 8 a.m. with aircraft ready for inspection at 9 a.m. each day. The preliminary race heats begin at 10 a.m.

Events will be going on throughout each day until 6 p.m.

The radio controlled airplane demonstrations are scheduled from noon to 1 p.m. with the air race and air show from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

It sounds like Saturday and Sunday will be spectacular days and an educational experience for folks of all ages.

Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for children ages six to 12.

We hope to see you at the air show.

High school football action continues this week when the undefeated Hancock North Central Hawks, who keep moving up in the state's polls, will visit the St. Martin's Yellow Jackets who are also undefeated.

The Yellow Jackets moved into the state's top 20 just this week.

Both teams are 5-0 and have been playing some explosive football this season.

This will be the second week in a row the Hawks will face an undefeated team.

Last week the Hawks played host to the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws in a wet battle and ended up on top by a 20-6 score.

The Hawks and Rock-A-Chaws game was a lot closer game than the score indicated, and being Homecoming also helped Hancock's performance.

Hancock will get a serious test Friday when they tangle with the Yellow Jackets.

St. Stanislaus on Friday will play Slidell-Salmen in an away contest.

The Rock-A-Chaws will be looking forward to getting back into the win column.

It will be an away game Friday for the Tigers of Bay High who have been unable to break into the win column thus far this season.

The game Friday could be the one when the young Tigers begin to play above themselves and take a victory from the Long Beach Bearcats.

The Pirates of Pass Christian will play host to East Central on Friday and are looking for a win.

The Coast Episcopal Raiders will journey this week to Prentiss Academy for an away contest.

The final three games of the season for the Raiders will be at home.

I hope local fans will be out supporting the high school team of their choice this week, giving the players the fan support they need and appreciate.

See you at the game.

This appears to be a busy weekend, and another event you do not want to miss is the annual Our Lady Academy Food Festival.

The Festival will be on Saturday from noon until 10 p.m. and Sunday from noon until 6 p.m.

This is the only fundraiser for the school and a lot of effort goes into it by parents and students.

There will be all types of foods, arts and crafts booths and live entertainment.

I will be there getting some of those delicious foods, and I hope to see you there.

It is time to set goals on education and to act

As I participated in the Presidential Summit on Education in Charlottesville, Virginia last week, I wished some Mississippi parents, children and educators could have been with me.

Better yet, I wish President Bush could have listened to what 2500 enthusiastic Mississippians said in the first two of seven education town meetings being held in our state.

The people of Mississippi are sounding a strong and clear signal about education. It is a signal that Washington needs to hear.

It is time to set goals in education, and once those goals are set we must act on them. That is exactly what we are doing with "Mississippi's BEST -- Better Education for Success Tomorrow," which sets forth goals to be achieved by the Year 2001.

Already, we have held town meetings in Gulfport and Greenville to discuss Mississippi's BEST. Others are scheduled for 6:30 PM at the Tupelo Civic Auditorium on October 2; McComb's Denman Junior High School on October 3; Jackson's Murrah High School on October 5; the University of Southern Mississippi's Performing Arts Center in Hattiesburg on October 9; and Meridian Community College on October 10.

What has come through loud and clear at the town meetings is that people want accountability in schools. They want teachers to be able to teach more and do paperwork less. They want kids to stay in school, and to move through school based on achievement rather than age. The town meetings have shown that Mississippians not only want their children to be able to read and write, they want them computer literate as well. And they want to do something about the secret shame of adult illiteracy.

The seven goals outlined in Mississippi's B.E.S.T., which reflect these concerns, call for:

--Schools that are regularly assessed and improving.

--Children who are fully prepared for kindergarten.

--Student achievement that is competitive with students in other developed countries.

--A reduction in the drop-out rate by half.

--An increase in the adult literacy rate from 70 percent to 90 percent.

--A reduction in teenage pregnancy by half.

--A higher education system that is more accountable for improved learning.

One of the messages I took to the Education Summit is that these are the very same goals that our nation needs to consider. Education is a matter of national security -- never more so than today.

It is appropriate that the summit took place at the University of Virginia. Many of our meetings were held in a building designed by our third president, Thomas Jefferson. Nearly 200 years ago, Jefferson made a statement that right true today -- "Any country that wants to be ignorant and free is hoping for something that never has been or never will be."

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Legislation that would force the boards of school districts to be elected rather than appointed is not in the best interest of public education.

Two state representatives from Jackson unveiled a plan for such legislation last week. Their reasoning is that the present ability of an appointed rather than elected school board to raise taxes in a district is basically taxation without representation.

State laws presently allow school boards to request up to a 7 percent annual increase in the district's budget from the previous year, leaving the funding up to the local governing board.

If the intent of the two legislators' proposal is to keep taxes down, there are other and better ways. School district consolidation, for example.

But to further politicize the public education arena when the state's public education system is at such a critical crossroads is wrong.

Public school boards should be appointed, as should district superintendents.

Bettering public education should be the only goal of a school board member, not politics.

High-cost auto tags benefit local governments

Finally, the Legislature seems close to doing something about giving Mississippians some relief from the high cost of automobile tags.

There's no question that lawmakers and other politicians are responding to the public outcry about the car tag issue, which one political figure last week called an issue "that strikes a public nerve."

Giving it added political momentum is the prospect that unless the Legislature soon finds a way to provide some relief, it could well become an overriding emotional issue in the next election.

At least six different plans are being floated by lawmakers and several statewide organizations for reducing car tag costs, most of which are geared to increasing taxes elsewhere in order to offset the loss of car tag revenues to local governments.

It's actually not the cost of the tag itself which hits motorists' pocketbooks hard, because the metal plate only costs $10 ($8.75 for a decal renewal), which is all the state gets out of the $500 or $600 you pay to put a tag on a medium size new Ford or Chevy.

The rest of the tag cost—except for a fixed $15 county road and bridge tax—is in local personal property ad valorem taxes collected at the time you purchase your tag. A $160 million tab is what the State Tax Commission estimates is the amount of personal property tax revenues city and county local taxing districts, including school districts, now get from auto tags.

So the heart of any solution to cutting the price of car tags is how you are going to deal with the potential $180 million revenue loss to county and city government entities. Certainly no plan is going to pass the Legislature which would force the local governments to absorb the revenue loss.

There seems to be a consensus growing in the Legislature for reducing the assessment ratio on automobiles from 30 percent of true value to 15 percent, an idea pushed earlier by Sen. Nevin Sledge of Cleveland.

Automobiles now are the only class of property other than utilities which are assessed at 30 percent of value. Three years ago a constitutional amendment adopted by the voters reduced the rate for private residential property from 15 to 10 percent.

State Treasurer Marshall Bennett, saying "the time for car tag reform has come," last week also proposed cutting the assessment ratio for autos to 15 percent. To replace the local revenue shortfall, Bennett proposed a 2 cents per gallon increase in the state gasoline tax, and $15 additional tag fee.

A key additional recommendation by Bennett is that personal property taxes on automobiles be collected at the same time other ad valorem taxes are billed rather than when you purchase your tag.

But Bennett's plan, according to Lester Herrington, deputy state revenue commissioner, would fall $20 to $25 million short of replacing the approximate $80 million revenue loss to local taxing districts by the reduction in the assessment ratio.

State Rep. Charles Young of Meridian last week proposed a plan calling for a flat $50 car tag statewide, with a 2 cents per gallon increase in the gasoline tax, and a 3 percent special tax on the sales price of new and used automobiles.

Young said based on a study done for him by the Legislative PEER committee, the plan would produce $153.6 million, which the PEER study said would be sufficient to cover the tax loss to counties and still have $15 million in excess revenue.

A plan to increase the state sales tax 1 percent, the gasoline tax 1 cent per gallon, and remove $160 million in exemptions from the state sales tax is being backed by the Mississippi Municipal Association, the Mississippi School Boards Association and the Mississippi Association of School Superintendents.

Under their plan, $100 million would be rebated by the state to car tag buyers, based on the price of the tag, and the other $216 million would be divided four ways among the state, cities, counties and school districts.

The bottom line of the car tag dilemma, however, is you're not going to get something for nothing. If the tax burden is taken off tags, it's sure to be shifted somewhere else.

Bay Youth Football needs monetary assistance

To the Editor,

The Bay Youth Football Association is a non-profit organization which provides football for the young boys in the Bay Waveland area. This program is headed under the Bay High Booster Club.

In addition to football, a program is provided for the girls who participate as cheerleaders.

We will sponsor our second Football Jamboree at J. D. McCulloch Stadium on Oct. 14. If you would like to contribute, please send your contribution to:

Bay Youth Football Association, c/o Cleveland Williams, 318 Bismark Street, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520

Your support is desperately needed in supporting the youngsters of our community by donations or contributions to help with the financial crisis we have.

For any additional information, please contact: Cleveland Williams, league president, home phone, 467-7485 or work phone, 467-7951.

Thank you

Animal shelter state must be improved

To the Editor:

My children and I had the opportunity to visit our 'so-called' animal shelter.

The place is outrageous. We had to hold our noses and mouths just to be able to walk through it.

Thank goodness our dog wasn't in there for my children to have to cope with him being in a hell hole like that. This is unspeakable.

The walkways were wet, slimy and filthy and that wasn't where the animals were. Something should be done about getting a better facility for those animals to have to be housed. It's bad enough they have to be locked up! This is cruel and inhuman, five to nine cats to a cage is not right. The whole atmosphere of the place and people were very upsetting to me and my children. The community should get together and help the animals that cannot help themselves. I am not a member of the Humane Society, but I will be soon.

Waveland Player's 'Deathtrap' debuts

BY DENA BISNETTE
"Deathtrap," a suspense-filled "who done it," is being presented by the Waveland Players tonight, Friday and Saturday at Waveland Civic Center.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. and tickets are available at the door. And, if a Monday night dress rehearsal was any indication, the cast of three stage veterans and two newcomers to the Waveland Players will "do it" well.

The play is competently directed by Dottie Overal. Overal and her cast play "Deathtrap" as a situation required some convincing acting, which is what much of the show is actually about.

Clem Acker plays Sidney Bruhl, an aging and currently unproductive playwright plotting the murder of a younger playwright who has written the perfect thriller—but he swears to his wife that he doesn't intend to do it.

Acker is calculating, maniacally calm as he plots and then desperate as he realizes he can't trust his partner in the plot he has actually carried out.

Nan Ehrbright as Myra Bruhl, the playwright's wife, becomes convincingly suspicious of her husband, then loving, then pleading as she sees a way out of their dwindling financial status. She is at her best, however, when she is acting frightened to death.

Martin Booda, a stage veteran along with Acker and Ehrbright, plays Clifford, the younger playwright. He spends a great deal of his time onstage in the earlier part of the play looking worried as he becomes more and more involved in Bruhl's situation. He impresses as the script progresses and his character is allowed to become more physical and outspoken.

The two newcomers in the show are James G. Tucker III, an attorney who is playing an attorney, and Diane Thomas, a 17-year-old student playing a psychic.

Thomas shows her experience in theatrical productions elsewhere as she parades around touching furniture and making predictions in a Dutch accent, while Tucker, in his first stage appearance ever, appears quite at home throughout the play but saves his best acting for his last scene.

The production staff includes

Overall, producer Edith Back, stage manager Glenda Coss, set designers and constructors Dick Ehrbright and Dick Fitch, lighting designer John Holmes, properties managers Pette Leach and Jane Sharp, lights and sound operator Eileen Crabtree, make-up technician Joyce Ohman, poster designer Dick Ehrbright, program designer Nan Ehrbright and ticket and concession crew Bunk Gardner, Betty Stechmann and Ted Stechmann.

Board

Cowand said an additional study may be in order.

Beat One Supervisor Robert Peterson stated that he did not want to act on Cowand's motion until he has had a chance to see what the permitting agencies could do.

Peterson said he would not second the motion and neither of the other supervisors present Monday, Ronald Cuevas of Beat Two and Wilmer Seymour of Beat Four, did so, allowing Cowand's request to die for lack of a second.

Beat Five Supervisor Mike Ladner was absent; Cuevas and Seymour made no statements regarding the ASRM.

Cowand was among the public officials who attended a public hearing about the ASRM and was present last week when a Mississippi State University environmental research scientist criticized the project during a presentation at a Thursday supervisor's meeting.

At that meeting, she stated that she intends to fight the location of the ASRM at Stennis Space Center if it will cause environmental harm to Hancock County.

The board meets again at 9 a.m. Sept. 13.

Seventh annual food fest to benefit OLA

A new location for the seventh annual Food Fest to benefit Our Lady Academy will be on the beachfront adjoining Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis. Hours will be on Saturday, Oct. 7 from noon to 10 p.m. and on Sunday, Oct. 8 from noon to 6 p.m.

A variety of live entertainment will perform including the special feature of "The Passport" on Saturday from 6 to 10 p.m. Admission and parking are free.

The OLA Parent-Teacher Organization uses the Food Fest as the only activity to supplement the budget by raising funds to fill the gap between tuition and expenses.

The purchase of additional equipment such as computers, electric typewriters, copy machine and new lockers for the school is made possible by this fundraiser.

This project involved the entire Christian community of

Our Lady Academy with cooking, manning booths, selling tickets and gathering ad money.

Shannon Maggio, OLA senior and Student Council president, has been busy getting the high school girls involved in the Food Fest. They will help Sister Jacqueline Howard set up and clean up and help Pat Ellis with Kiddieland.

Senior OLA girls have also been assisting Sandy Kolodziej, Joan Dagnall and Margaret Boyce with newspaper ads.

The 1989 Food Fest chairman is Theresa Braud. She will be assisted by the following booth chairmen: Weezie Kennedy and Ellen Breath, American; Patricia and Laura Griffith, Italian; Shawn Tusa, Western; Joanne Kinney, Greek; Linda Alcala, Oriental.

Chef John "Chappy" Chapman, Cajun; Shelia Madden, Mexican; Nancy Smith, Cindy

Clark and Catherine Myers, Seafood; Barbara Carter, German;

Millie Rutledge and Suzie Lee, desserts; Malena Strong, coffee and beignets; Mike Harrison and John Chevis, beer; and Elaine Selle, coke. Additional booths will include arts and crafts chaired by Sharon Fagot, and face painting is done by members of the Princess Shoppe Teen Board.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katie McGuire Caire

As sure a sign of fall as the tang in the air is the big soup pot simmering on the kitchen stove, don't you agree?

Even though the warm days haven't left us, October's coming starts us thinking in terms of more substantial cooking than we were inclined to do during the heat of summer. So, as I write this, my kitchen is wonderfully redolent with the aroma of a beef brisket and its seasonings slowly coming to its tasty finish.

"Beef Bouilli"—boiled beef—is the name long ago given to this dish by cooks in the countryside of France, where it originated. But that's a misnomer, really, for the beef must never, never ever be boiled, but instead, simmered slowly, below the boiling point, for a few hours, lest it turn out tough and stringy.

In many cities and countries of Europe, boiled beef is considered quite a delicacy, especially in Vienna, famous just as much for its boiled beef as for its fabled pastries.

Various cuts of beef may be used for boiled beef, such as brisket, short ribs, bottom round or rump, with a four or five-pound piece ample for six to eight servings, with leftovers.

I prefer the brisket, and often serve it "country French or Cajun" style, with whole carrots and onions, and sometimes, potatoes as well, adding the vegetables to the pot during the last hour of the cooking time. Here's:

BEUF BOUILLI (Boiled Beef)

- 4 lbs. beef brisket or rump, etc.
- 3 cups water, approximately
- Fresh ground or coarse black pepper, salt as desired
- 1 or 2 bay leaves
- Several sprigs parsley, celery leaves
- 1 onion, sliced

Dash of hot pepper sauce

1 carrot, sliced

Wipe the brisket with a damp cloth, and dredge with flour, then brown in oil or bacon drippings. Place in a large pot, along with the seasonings, and cover with water. Cover the pot, bring to a boil, then lower the fire and simmer for approximately three hours. Pinch a bit off and taste, and see if it's tender. If not, simmer a little longer, until tender.

If you plan to serve the brisket cold, just let it cool in the broth, then place on a platter, weight it down with another plate, so as to press the meat into shape, in order that it will slice nicely.

If serving hot, let it stand a bit, then remove to a platter. And, have on hand a horseradish sauce of some sort or other, whether you're serving this hot or cold. Sometimes I stir a fourth of a cup of prepared horseradish into a cup of sour cream or whipped cream. At other times, I add a tablespoon or so of the horseradish and a tablespoon of lemon juice to a cup of cream sauce. And often I just slather on the horseradish "as is," either the prepared, bottled horseradish or the chopped root or whatever.

This is a good dish for any time of the year, as a matter of act, and ever so easy. Often, I serve cups or bowls of the hearty seasoned broth or bouillon first, then I serve the brisket, slicing it thick, serving it along with horseradish sauce, of course, or simply with horseradish, if I'm in a lazy mood or want the extra tang of the horseradish itself.

Leftovers—if you've any—are easily dished up: beef with barbecue sauce, for instance, or as a tasty hash or meat and vegetable salad, an so on. And, the broth is an excellent basis for stock for onion soup. Enjoy!

Apple-pumpkin pancakes make inexpensive brunch

Go home for brunch this weekend. Take a little extra time to fix something special. Put hustle and bustle on hold and gather the family round to enjoy a satisfying meal and good company, too.

Apple-Pumpkin Pancake is a recipe designed to produce golden memories. It's hearty and comforting with a taste that smacks of the autumn harvest. The pumpkin-flavored pancake is light with freshly beaten egg whites folded into the batter. Flipping the skillet upside-down to serve reveals a walnut-laden caramel syrup coating and a juicy layer of cooked apples.

This homespun recipe is not hard to make, and quite inexpensive—using in-season and on-hand ingredients. Yet, it rivals the taste of any pancake-house specialty.

A kitchen tip: when separating eggs, drop one egg white at a time into a cup and then transfer it to the mixing bowl before tackling another egg. This avoids the disaster of a bit of yolk from the last egg getting into several whites (which will inhibit their foaming).

APPLE-PUMPKIN PANCAKE

4 servings

- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, divided
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- 1 medium cooking apple, cored and thinly sliced into rings

- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup solid pack pumpkin
- 1/3 cup milk
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar

In 10-inch omelet pan or skillet with ovenproof handle, melt butter over low heat. Remove from heat. Stir in 1/4 cup of the sugar, walnuts and spice until well blended. Over sugar mixture in pan, arrange apple rings, overlapping slightly. Cover and cook over low heat until apples are crisp-tender, about 10 minutes.

In small bowl, stir together flour, baking powder and salt.

Add pumpkin, milk and egg yolks and beat until smooth. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar at high speed until foamy. Add remaining 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating constantly until sugar is dissolved and whites are glossy and stand in soft peaks. Gently, but thoroughly, fold reserved yolk mixture into whites.

Pour egg mixture over cooked apple slices in skillet, and gently smooth mixture's surface. Bake in preheated 400° F. oven until golden brown and knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 12 minutes. Loosen edges of pancake with spatula. Invert pan over warmed plate. Cut into wedges. Serve immediately.

School board toughens censorship policy

The Hancock School Board beefed up its library censorship regulation Monday. Censorship policies are standard with school systems in the state, but Hancock's was too vague, according to Assistant Superintendent James Pair.

The old policy merely prohibited "obscene material." Under the new policy, school principals must approve television shows and VCR tapes shown to classes. Movies with X- and R-ratings are prohibited, according to Pair.

The policy recognizes individual parents rights to object to materials to which their children have access and creates a committee to review parent's complaints about library materials, Pair said. "To my knowledge, the school system has had no censorship problems," he said.

ON PATROL

POSSESSION, INTENT TO DISTRIBUTE

Two Shoreline Park residents were arrested Saturday at 12:45 p.m. for possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong, Richard R. Palmer, 37, and his wife, Karen Ruth Palmer, 33, were charged with possession of five bags of marijuana, a 38 caliber pistol and drug paraphernalia.

They were released on $3,000 bond each.

Assisting in the arrest were Deputy William Pepperman, Deputy Ray Ballard and Deputy Lamar Jones.

By Janet McQueen

OUTSTANDING DRUG WARRANT

A Bay St. Louis man was arrested on drug charges Monday morning on a warrant that had been outstanding since 1987. Randy Lyons was apprehended by Bay Police Officer David Sellier and Detective Tom Burleson at 8:40 a.m. at the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis Streets. He has been charged with sale of a controlled substance, cocaine, according to Burleson.

Lyons had left town to avoid being arrested in a 1987 drug roundup, according to Burleson.

The arrest was made after a patrolman spotted someone at the "corner" whom he believed to be Lyons and a subsequent, positive identification was made by Burleson, the detective said.

Lyons is being held in Hancock County Justice Facility on a $5,000 bond.

Hancock County Lions Club

The Hancock County Lions Club will sponsor a Drug Abuse program on Friday, October 6 next to Jitney-Jungle in Bay St. Louis in connection with Lions Awareness Day, October 8.

The Sheriff's Department will set up the program, and literature and pamphlets will be distributed to the community on programs and goals of the Lions Clubs International.

HELICOPTERS

"It glides like a grand piano," is the cryptic comment of an American GI on the prowess of the helicopter.

Yet, the "chopper" has become the mainstay of the U.S. Army's assault force—the Bell Huey Cobra proved invaluable in the difficult terrain of Vietnam.

"Chopper" at 8 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 8, on Mississippi ETV, is the first in a new 13-part series from the BBC that explores science and the scientific in the context of everyday life.

This first program explores why helicopters are highly susceptible to mechanical failure and have a tragic accident record. Just how safe are these highly sophisticated vertical aircraft?

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1989-1B

Time Out

By Dena Bisnette

A new sport, airplane racing, is coming into Hancock County this weekend, and while I've never seen any of it, it sounds like a really fine spectator event.

The races will be part of the annual air show at Stennis International Airport Saturday and Sunday. One of the organizers of the event told me that some types of racers fly at 250 to 300 m.p.h. The races are run in heats the same way many auto races are handled.

To me, that sounds just fast enough to be exciting. It also sounds like one of those events you can take the entire family to see.

Running enthusiasts out there will want to mark their calendars for Oct. 14, when the second annual Run into Autumn 5K and One-mile Health Run/Walk will begin at 8 a.m. at Beach Park in Pascagoula.

Gulf Coast Running Club is serving as host for the event, so advance registration for members is only $7. Non-members pay $8 for the 5K. Registration is $9 on race day. $5 is the fee for kids 12 and under who want to participate in the one-mile.

For information, call Lindo Sullivan at 832-6071 or Carlos Robles at 875-0556.

For those of you who want to take a somewhat slower pace and help charity at the same time, the March of Dimes benefit, "WalkAmerica," will be Oct. 21.

It begins at the foot of the Bay St. Louis bridge and ends at Buccaneer State Park. Registration will be at 8 a.m. and the walk begins at 9 a.m.

For more information, contact Sheriff Ronald Peterson at 467-5101 or Betsy Ashman at Hancock Insurance at 467-5496.

You can ride bikes for charity, too, with the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels for Life" Bike-a-thon coming up Saturday.

Stanley Robert at Diamondhead is serving as local chairman and riders or sponsors may contact him for information at 255-1278. Those who want to participate in Waveland should call Billy Adam at 467-4788.

Sunday's Cycles Plus Bicycle Club ride will be the Menonite Loop. Riders will meet at Bay View and US-90 in Pass Christian at 9 a.m. The course is about 50 miles, with terrain ranging from flat to rolling hills.

The Bay St. Louis eighth and ninth grade team will stage its 1989 homecoming presentation at 5 p.m. Thursday before the Pearl River Central game. Kick-off time for the game is 5:30 p.m. at the high school stadium.

Don't forget the third annual Hancock County Bassmasters Open Bass Tournament on the Pearl River Sunday. More information on the event is available from Ronnie Ferrell at 467-4036 or Sid LeBlanc at 467-3234.

The Sea Coast Echo still needs results from local sporting events as well as sports-related announcements for this column. The deadline for contributions is noon on Tuesday. Anyone with an item to contribute may call Dena Bisnette at 467-5474.

Hawkettes open with 7-9 victory

The struggling Hancock North Central Hawkettes, finally starting their season after a delay due to scheduling problems, opened last week with a 9-7 victory over Pass Christian.

Winning pitcher was Rachel Deschamp. Leading in hits for the night were Monica Malley, four for four; Penny Ladner, knocking out a home run; Cheree Ladner, three for four; and Deschamp and Rhonda Doyle, who each went two for four.

The team is coached by Carl Bardwell.

Raiders fall to Faith Academy

Costly dropped passes along with a lack of concentration in the first half and a lackluster effort in the second half led to Coast Episcopal High School's defeat at the hands of Faith Academy 20-0 last Friday night in Mobile.

The loss dropped the Raiders to 0-7 on the year and marked the 17th consecutive loss over the last two years.

In the first period of play, the Raiders drove the football down to the Rams' eight-yard line only to be denied the touchdown on their own miscues.

On third down and five from the Rams eight, a Tyrone Jones pass in the end zone to a wide open Billy Guice was dropped. On fourth down, a mix-up on the snap count ended the Raider threat.

The game remained scoreless until the midway point of the second period. The Raiders on fourth down from their own 25-year line snapped the ball over the punter's head resulting in a blocked punt. A recovery by the Rams in the end zone resulted in a touchdown. The extra point was no good and the Rams led 6-0.

On the Raiders' next possession, a couple of dropped passes once again halted a Raider drive and the half ended with the Rams still on top, 6-0.

The third period saw the Raiders stop themselves once again as on fourth and less than one from the Rams' 48, the Raiders were unable to pick up the first down.

For the night, the Raiders picked up only 22 yards on the ground on 17 rushing attempts.

With less than a minute remaining in the third period, the Rams scored again, this time through the air. The extra point was good and the teams went into the fourth period with the Rams on top 13-0.

In the final period, the Rams scored two more times with their final touchdown coming with 30 seconds left in the game.

"This was a ball game we had a chance at winning," said Coach Jack Hutchison. "Our lack of concentration and all the dropped passes killed us in the first half. When you have lost as many games as we have, losing becomes natural. But I am going to find out in the remaining four games how much heart these kids really have and finally break this losing streak," said Hutchison.

Although Hutchison was not

BHS Tigers, Long Beach each seek first win Friday

BY D.C. HARVILL

In spite of a winless season, Bay High's head coach feels the team he is taking to Long Beach Friday night is a much better team than the one he started with five weeks ago.

The Tigers, with a 0-5 record, suffered a 21-0 homecoming loss last Friday against East Central.

The Long Beach Bearcats go into the game with a 0-4-1 record.

"We are a lot better than we were five weeks ago. You have to be here every day to really see it, but they've come a long way," said Coach Dodd Lee.

Lee said his team played well offensively and defensively against East Central and will stick to their strategic guns for Friday's game.

"We just had some breakdowns inside the 20," he said.

The coach, a former Picayune High assistant coach, said the strategy being used by the Tigers is the same Picayune used in their 1987 State Championship season.

"We are going to stay with what we've been doing. I believe in it—I know it can work. We are learning and getting better," he said.

The Bearcats can throw the ball well and show a lot of sets, Lee said.

"We have to be careful to make the right adjustments for each set. We are going to have to make a good start—that is important with a young team. We're going to find as many advantages as we can," he said.

Not winning has been hard on the players and the coaching staff, but the team's morale is holding up, the coach said.

The Tigers have bested Long Beach in their past five face offs.

Kickoff is 7:30 at Long Beach's Lance Lumpkin Stadium.

Coach returns to Slidell when SSC takes on Salmen

Special to the Echo
By Tom Ackerman

Although St. Stanislaus officially celebrated its homecoming a couple of weeks back, tomorrow night will be sort of a returning home for Rock head football coach Ken Lyons.

Tomorrow night in Slidell, the Rock-A-Chaws will face Salmen High School where Lyons coached for six years, from 1976 to 1981. And, according to Lyons, it's going to be another tough opponent for the Rocks. Salmen has a current 2-3 record, but as happens frequently, the record doesn't tell the whole story. The two teams Salmen lost to were higher classification schools.

While he was at Salmen at the helm of the Spartans' football team, Lyons coached high school All-American Alan Risher, who went on to become a record-setter at LSU.

Last week brought the Rock-

A-Chaws their first loss of the season against four wins, a 20-6 defeat at the hands of the Hancock North Central Hawks.

Reflecting on the game against the Hawks, Lyons noted just how close the game really was.

"HNC proved to be the most consistent in playing without costly penalties," he said.

"To me," Lyons continued, "The SSC-HNC game was a contest between two very good football teams. The defensive units of both teams played very alert and heads-up football. The final score, in fact, did not reflect just how close the game really was."

And Lyons had a final note of praise for the Hawks:

"The SSC staff wishes to congratulate the HNC staff and team for their quality preparation."

Game time tomorrow is 7:30 p.m. at the Salmen High School Stadium in Slidell.

Hancock, St. Martin square off to determine district leader

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock North Central Hawks travel to St. Martin Friday for a game that could decide the district championship even before regular season play is finished.

Hawk Head Coach Irvin Favre, whose team is currently ranked seventh in the state Associated Press sportswriters' poll while St. Martin is ranked 16th, said his team has been putting in extra time this week to get ready for the game.

St. Martin and Hancock are both 5-0. Both defeated d'Iberville, which has been the big district powerhouse in the past and has captured several recent championships.

Hancock is 2-0 in the district with victories against d'Iberville and St. Stanislaus. St. Martin is 1-0 and faces St. Stanislaus next week.

Hancock has never won a conference victory but has placed second in the district many times.

"We know what we have to do," said the coach. "We have to play some hard-nosed football this week."

"This game is going to lay it on the line for the championship. And, we have a chance to win it."

Favre usually takes a one-game-at-a-time approach with his ballclub to insure their concentration on individual contests, but he is not doing that this week—he's looking ahead.

"This game is a little different. When you play your first district game, you're not thinking about the championship."

In thinking about the championship, the Hawks have to consider playing without starter Don Hunter, who is doubtful for Friday due to injuries.

They also have to think about St. Martin's power offense, which relies largely on 170-pound tailback Demetrius Mosley for its ground game, mixing in some passing to a fast split end, Scott Maniscalco. Mosley is presently second leading scorer for the district.

"They are just a real good, aggressive football team," Favre explained.

"We've done everything we could possibly do to have our kids prepared. We hope they can make use of it."

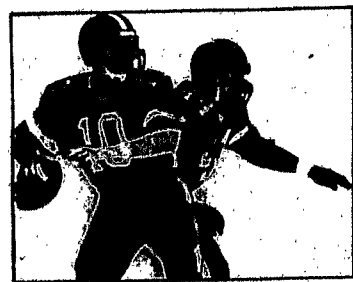

"It would really mean a lot to us to have a large following at the game this week," he added. Kick-off time is 7:30. To get to St. Martin, get off Interstate 10 at the Ocean Springs exit and drive about a mile toward Ocean Springs, where signs will be posted to show the way.

The event will begin at 8 p.m., with the band to perform at 9 p.m. Set-ups will be available. For information, call Cynthia at 467-0634 or Dorothy at 467-8070 after 5:30 p.m. Donation is $5.00 per person.

Scobel's kick wins game for Pearl River's Wildcats

With 20 seconds left in Saturday night's Pearl River Community College-Gulf Coast football game, PRCC head coach Mike Nelson figured he had the Wildcats just where he wanted them.

"I thought we had the better kicking game. I figured if we could get it down to that, we'd win," Nelson said.

Wildcat place-kicker Malter Scobel of Bay St. Louis made Nelson sound prophetic. His 36-yard field goal snapped a 19-19 tie with 15 seconds left in the game to give PRCC a 22-19 victory over the Bulldogs before 4,000 at Dobie Holden Stadium.

The win snapped the Wildcats' three-game losing streak and improved their record to 2-3 overall and 1-2 in the division.

In addition to Scobel, who supplied the PRCC offense in the second half with three field goals, the Wildcat victory was keyed by a rejuvenated ground game that piled up 339 yards.

"We told coach to go back into the 'I' (formation)," said running back Michael Toefield, who gained 139 yards on 30 carries. "I know the 'I' and I know how to run it. It's what I ran for four years in high school."

The backfield adjustment wasn't the only change Nelson made in his offense. He inserted Reginald Austin at quarterback and beefed up the offensive line by inserting 310-pound defensive tackle Martin Wright of Hattiesburg and 320-pound defensive tackle Sedrick Washington as blockers.

"We made some big men come on the line last week in practice because we know (Gulf Coast) had some big people in the gaps," Toefield said. "But we made the adjustments."

Nelson was pleased with Austin's performance as well.

"We wanted to take advantage of Austin's mobility," Nelson said. "The main thing we wanted to do was make him a threat."

Austin missed on all four of his passing attempts, but the speed that won the Louisiana schoolboy the 100-yard dash title last year was evident. Austin broke loose in the first half on an 82-yard touchdown run where he simply outran everyone.

Toefield took over in the second half, gaining 128 yards on 24 carries. He and teammate Cedric Anderson pounded the ball well enough to set up Scobel's 20-yard and 27-yard field goals. Toefield was nearly a one-man battering ram on the game-winning drive, carrying five of the eight plays for 32 yards.

Scobel's boot ruined a stellar performance from Gulf Coast quarterback David Davis. Davis completed nine of 22 attempts for 130 yards and one touchdown. He also scored the other two Bulldog touchdowns on one-yard runs.

Davis said missed assignments, including two bad snaps on extra point attempts that would have given the Bulldogs the lead, cost his team the victory.

"In the second half, we broke down. They were blitzing more and showing us different looks, but it wasn't anything we couldn't handle," Davis said.

After Scobel's first two field goals put PRCC up 19-13, Davis drove the Bulldogs 64 yards to tie it up midway through the fourth quarter. His 23-yard completion to Rod Washington on third down kept the drive alive.

Davis eventually sneaked in from the 1, but a high snap left the teams deadlocked and set the stage for Scobel's kick.

Turnovers contributed to each team's first scores.

Gulf Coast's Louis Clarence fumbled on the game's first play, with the Wildcats recovering on the Bulldog 18. Flanker Terry Carter scored on a three-yard reverse and after Scobel's extra point, Pearl River led 7-0. Austin returned the favor on the Wildcats' next series, fumbling after getting nailed in the backfield, and Gulf Coast took over on the Pearl River 27.

Five plays later, the Bulldogs had moved to the Wildcat one-yard line. Davis fumbled the next snap, but recovered the ball in the end zone. Les Lala's extra point tied the game, 7-7.

The Wildcats take on the Northeast Tigers this week in Dobie Holden Stadium in Poplarville. Kick-off time is 7 p.m.

MSU hosts Northeast Louisiana

Mississippi State returns to Scott Field Saturday, October 7 for the first time since a September 2 season-opener with Vanderbilt this weekend when the Bulldogs play host to the Northeast Louisiana Indians.

Kickoff time at Scott Field is set for 6 p.m.

The Bulldogs bring a 2-2 record into the game following a 21-0 loss to Florida in Tampa, Fla. last weekend.

The Indians, competing in the NCAA 1-AA division, likewise enter the contest with a 2-2 mark after dropping a 24-10 decision to Southwestern Louisiana.

During pre-game ceremonies, the MSU M-Club Alumni Association will be inducting four former Bulldog athletes into its hall of fame, football great Walter Suggs, basketball star W. D. "Red" Stroud, tennis standout Hugh Thomson and golfing star Joe Lupe. Also on tap during pregame activities is a ceremony honoring Mississippi State's 1989 SEC Championship baseball team.

Proposed ordinance excludes non-residents from recreational oystering in Mississippi

A proposed ordinance, tentatively adopted by the state Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks, will exclude non-residents from recreational oystering in Mississippi waters.

The ordinance is scheduled to be finally adopted by the commission at its October meeting.

The proposed new ordinance was submitted to the commission by John Cirino, Bureau of Marine Resources shellfish coordinator, who said the recommendation was made after holding three public hearings on the proposed ordinance.

"Most of the oystermen and oyster dealers agreed that it was a necessary measure because of abuses of recreational oyster licenses," Cirino said.

Cirino said non-resident commercial oyster licenses are issued to licensed boats for fees of $100 or $200, while recreational licenses are issued to non-residents at a fee of $10 per person. A recreational oysterman may take three sacks of oysters during any seven-day period.

"That means that a family of four could pay a total license fee of $40, come over here from another state and take 12 sacks of oysters back home and sell them," Cirino said.

Cirino said that declines in oyster populations during recent years means that Mississippi oyster fishermen can't afford for people to illegally take oysters out of the state to sell.

Other changes proposed by the ordinance include:

—Requiring non-residents conducting any shellfish activity (fishing, selling or transporting oysters) to pay the license fee required of non-residents by the state of Mississippi and, in addition, pay the remainder of any fees charged by his native state to Mississippi fishermen.

For example: Mississippi fishermen sometimes have to pay oyster licenses, gear fees and docking fees totaling $400 to fish in some states.

If the ordinance is finally adopted, it would mean that a fisherman from that state who wanted to tong oysters in Mississippi would have to pay the regular $100 Mississippi non-resident tonging fee plus an additional $300.

Cirino said that such an ordinance would make oyster fishing along the entire Gulf Coast more equitable.

—Requires that any shipment of oysters being transported from Mississippi across state lines must be under refrigeration. Cirino said this measure would bring the state into compliance with recommended national shellfish program guidelines.

At present, state law requires oysters to be under refrigeration within two hours after they are landed.

—Upgrades Graveline Bayou in Jackson County from a prohibited status to a conditionally approved status.

A prohibited status on an oyster growing area means that no oyster may be harvested there for any reason. A conditionally approved status on an oyster growing area means that oysters may be harvested when approved conditions exist as detailed in the area's shellfish management plan.

These conditions depend on such criteria as the amount of rainfall, river levels and amounts of bacteria in the water.

Cirino said the Bureau of Marine Resources has established a taped telephone line that gives information on the opening and closing of oyster reefs in Mississippi waters. The number is (601) 385-5902.

How to fish tidal waters

Some of the best bass fishing—but some of the most difficult—takes place in the brackish water rivers that flow into the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and into the Gulf of Mexico.

It's good fishing because these waters generally are rich in nutrients and hold a lot of bass; it's difficult because tidal fluctuations of several feet may keep bass moving.

"If there is one key to tidal water fishing, I'd have to say it would be to stay in slightly deeper water where changing tides have less of an effect," says Burma Thomas, 1988 Angler of the Year for the women's Bass 'N Gal professional tournament circuit and a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff.

"If you fish shallow water, you're going to be left high and dry when the tide moves out," explains Thomas. "Obviously, the bass are going to move as the tide changes, and you're going to have to continually move with them."

"On the other hand, if you start fishing in deeper water you can stay there throughout an outgoing tide, and perhaps even catch those shoreline fish as they move deeper."

It's still critical to look for structure and cover in the deeper water, explains Thomas, who has fished tidal rivers from Florida to New York. She prefers vegetation first if she can find it, but doesn't overlook logs, rocks, stumps, sunken barges, or even channel breaklines.

"Another advantage of staying in slightly deeper water is not having to contend with changing water color and pH quite as much," says the Evinrude pro.

"On an incoming tide, particularly in areas where the change is as much as three or four feet or even more, the rush of incoming water frequently stirs up the bottom along the shorelines."

"When the bottom is stirred up, the water not only becomes muddy, but its pH can change very rapidly. This can be critical, because pH balance is what helps determine how active bass will be. If the pH becomes too high or too low, the fish simply become inactive."

"I believe the men fishing in the Bass Masters Classic on the James River in Virginia saw this happen earlier this year."

Because the changing tides literally change the environment of the bass with each incoming and outgoing switch, Thomas feels tidal water bass tend to be a little more choosy about hitting lures. Her best success has come with smaller lures and lighter lines.

"I really like to use a four-inch plastic worm with a light slip sinker," she explains, "or a 1/8-ounce spinnerbait. These lures fall very slowly, and tend to get washed around by the currents. I think they must look very natural to bass."

Two places the Evinrude pro looks for when fishing tidal waters are the mouths of creeks, where she can usually find the deeper water she prefers, or the extreme backs of creeks—if the water remains deep after an outgoing tide.

"The mouths of creeks usually have deep water near shallow water," Thomas explains, "which is always a good combination for bass anywhere. Creek mouths frequently have good structure, too, such as underwater points, sharp drops, and cover."

"The backs of creeks in tidal water are good only if they aren't affected too much by the tide change. I've seen a lot of anglers lose their fishing spots, and even get stuck in the mud, when a receding tide left them without any water."

Most tidal waters tend to be quite rich in nutrients and thus they support healthy bass populations. The bass aren't usually big fish, but there are more of them.

"That's what makes tidal water fishing so much fun," says Thomas. "If you can learn the tricks of the tide, you can really catch a lot of fish."

One of the cheapest insurance policies any boater can buy is a good fuel filter, because fuel contaminated with water or dirt can ruin an outboard and leave you stranded on the water.

OMC SystemMatched® Parts and Accessories offers a filter that features a spin-on cartridge with a treated paper element able to separate water from fuel. The filter is available from Johnson and Evinrude outboard dealers.

Air Show opens Saturday at Stennis Airport

BY DENA BISNETTE

This year's air show and aircraft exhibit at Stennis International Airport will be highlighted by a new feature—aircraft racing.

The two-day event, set for Saturday and Sunday, is being presented by Chapter 479 of the Experimental Aircraft Association and Gulf Coast Air Race Association.

"With larger crowds at each of our past air shows, we wanted to offer even more excitement, so we formed the Gulf Coast Air Race Association," said association president Mike Smith.

"Spectators will have a spectacular view of the high-powered racers as they fly a tight course around marker pylons just off the main Stennis runway," he said.

He added that the world-famous Reno Air Races, now an annual event, started with a modest event similar to the one in Hancock County.

"We feel this can grow into a major annual tourist event for South Mississippi," Smith added.

Gates will open at 8 a.m. both days with first race heats beginning at 10 a.m. Air show and race heats continue from 1 p.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $2 for children ages six to 12, with children under six admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Rain will not cancel the show, Smith said, but if sky conditions become unsuitable for flying due to bad weather, the event will be rescheduled for Nov. 11 and 12.

He said cameras are welcome and spectators may bring lawn chairs if they wish.

Racers are scheduled to include World War II-era T-6 trainers; Formula One planes which run at speeds of about 250 m.p.h.; Formula Vees pow-Simmons and Marty Duke from Gulfport; Ennie Argence, Vic Schilleci, Frank Smith and Bill Bethea from New Orleans; and Joe Hartung from Baton Rouge, La.

"We have people who hear about the event and just fly in, so it's sort of a surprise package," Smith explained. "We've had people calling from thousands of miles away. The naut Deke Slayton.

Smith, a member of the National Experimental Aircraft Association since 1956, said the Gulf Coast chapter was formed about 13 years ago. The air show, which started 11 years ago, was originally staged at a small private strip near Lyman but was moved to Stennis in 1987.

"It gave us a much bigger area to work with the high-performance planes and other aircraft that needed longer strips because they had trouble getting in and out of the old location," commented Smith, one of about 20 local people involved in setting up this year's show.

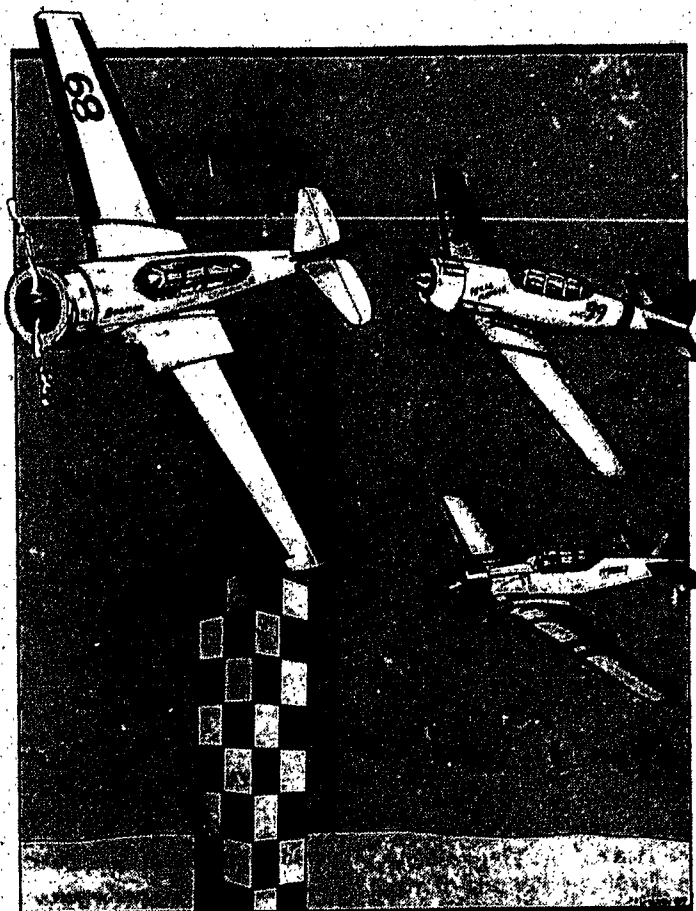

"The Port and Harbor Commission has been helping us by getting the airport ready."

"The main thing we're doing is exposing the airport to a lot of people in Hancock County who wouldn't ordinarily come here. This airport is about 20 years old, but many local residents have never seen it."

Also assisting the sponsors are local groups who will be providing food and other items.

They include local schools, Williams Pit Barbecue, Lil Ray's, Robert's Reef, Annunciation C.Y.O., Pearlinton P.T.O., Diamondhead Academy P.T.O., Bay-Waveland Jaycees, St. Stanislus Key Club, Biloxi and Gulfport Civil Air Patrol, Kiln and Diamondhead Volunteer Fire Departments, Experimental Aircraft chapters from Slidell and New Orleans and the 99s, a women's flight organization based in Gulfport and New Orleans.

Experimental Aircraft Association members will exhibit antique and home-built aircraft and many of them will be on hand to discuss design and construction and provide demonstrations.

"We even had some 1930s-type planes last year," Smith commented.

Several hundred of the aircraft are expected to be shown, but the exact number will not actually be determined until Saturday because the event has been publicized in national aviation publications.

son; U.S. Naval air stations in Pensacola and Meridian; U.S. Coast Guard units in Mobile and New Orleans; Columbus Air Force Base; Keesler Air Force Base; NASA Earth Resources and Mississippi State University will include several types of fighters, cargo lifters, assault planes, trainers, helicopters, jets and research planes.

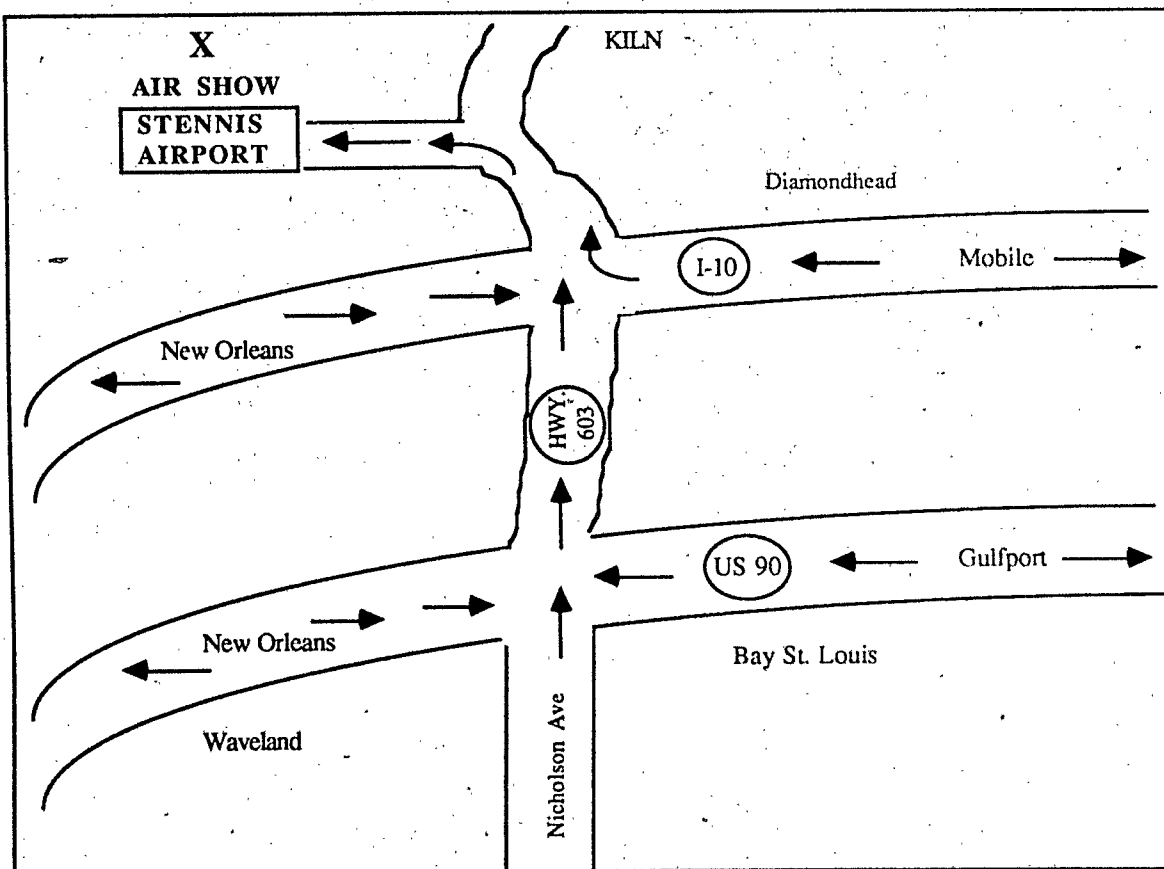

Smith said the inclusion of military aircraft add an educational dimension to the show, which he calls "excellent family entertainment."

Another aspect of the event in which children will be particularly interested will be the quarter-scale radio-controlled airplane demonstrations, which is expected to include a jet-powered replica of a military plane as well as a quarter-scale Piper Cub.

Celebrity guests at the event will include Alan Henley of the North American Team, a T-6 flying group, and former astro-

English teachers invited to PRCC free seminar

Pearl River Community College's department of English will host a day-long workshop for all high school English teachers from the school's six-county district Oct. 12.

Bruce Hoem and Mary Peddicord, English instructors at the school, explained the program, which is open to teachers from both public and private schools, will serve as a forum where the teachers can exchange ideas on teaching methods in areas including composition, literature, grammar, reading, developmental English and creative writing.

They said they expect between 70 and 80 teachers to attend. Registration is from 8 to 9 a.m.

Theme for this year's program, which is free of charge, is "Sharing Classroom Ideas that Work." This is the first time the school has hosted the program, the teachers said.

In addition to the workshop, the teachers will also be treated to lunch. For more information contact PRC's department of English at 795-6801.

Denson named St. Stanislaus National Merit Semifinalist

Brother Paul Montero, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, has announced that Noah Denson, a senior at St. Stanislaus, has been named as a National Merit Semifinalist for the 1989-90 school session.

Merit semifinalists are among the highest scorers in each state on the 1989 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) which was administered to over one million students throughout the United States.

The semifinalists represent the top one-half of one percent of those taking the test on a nationwide basis; and they become eligible to be named as National Merit Finalists. These finalists will be announced in April, 1990.

Denson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.L. Denson of Pass Christian, is presently in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus. He is an alpha honor roll student; and he is a member of the National Honor Society, the Spanish Honor Society, the Key Club, and the Student Council.

and junior. He was president of his freshman class and is a member of the math and science team. He is corresponding secretary of the St. Stanislaus Key Club.

Bay High, Pass Middle School receive South Central Bell grants

Bay Senior High School has received a $1,500 grant from South Central Bell, its corporate partner in the Adopt-A-School program.

"Bay High will use the funds to begin a long-term goal of creating a broad based computer education program. The ultimate goal is to have two classrooms equipped with 20 computer units," according to Roger James, principal.

"South Central Bell is pleased to be able to assist with this project for Bay High School," said Pat Santucci, district manager for South Central Bell.

"Adopt-A-School Grants are some of the many ways our company supports education. Also offered this year by South Central Bell were teacher mini-grants with maximum funding of $500 awarded to teachers to implement innovative teaching ideas."

Pass Christian Middle School will use a $500 grant awarded by South Central Bell to assist in computerizing the school's media center, according to John Deem, principal.

Adopt-A-School Grants carried a maximum amount of $2,500 and were evaluated by a panel of educational professionals. The panel looked primarily for innovative ideas that could be realistically implemented in classrooms.

Doubloon design contest offered by St. Paul Carnival Association

In 1915 the first organized Mardi Gras parade took place in Pass Christian with the theme "Peace and War."

King Arthur (as the first carnival kings were called) of 1915 was Louis Martin, his queen was Ellen Courtney.

In honor of the 75th year of Pass Christian carnivals, the board of directors of St. Paul Carnival Association is sponsoring a contest which is open to the public to design the 1990 Mardi Gras doubloon.

This year's theme is "Parading the Pass—Parading the Past."

The rules and regulations for the doubloon designing contest are as follows:

Design must reflect the theme: "Parading the Pass—Parading the Past," 1915-1990 (Seventy-Five years of Carnival)

Design must be original, (trademark or copywrite unacceptable).

Design must be a circular design with a seven-inch diameter submitted on 8 1/2" x 11" white paper, drawn with black ink. Design cannot be creased, folded or bent in any fashion.

Bilbo, Lynn attend MSU seminar

Scott T. Bilbo and Keith E. Lynn, both of Bay St. Louis, were among 54 Mississippi high school students recently taking part in the eighth annual institute for Future Agricultural Leaders at Mississippi State University.

Sponsored by MSU's College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Mississippi Farm Bureau, the week-long institute provides participants with an in-depth understanding of the agriculture industry, including career opportunities. Participants must be at least juniors in the upcoming academic year and among the top 25 percent of their classes.

Welcoming the two was Dr. Marty J. Fuller, assistant dean of agriculture and home economics.

Bilbo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bilbo. Lynn is the son of Mrs. Lynn Lynn.

Bishop Howze celebrates Our Lady Academy Mass

Our Lady Academy celebrated an "Opening of School" Mass on September 12. Diocese of Biloxi Bishop Joseph L. Howze, Msgr. Ron Herzog, pastor of St. Paul's in Pass Christian, and Father Pete Mockler, pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf Parish in Bay St. Louis celebrated the Mass.

The theme of the Mass was "The Spirit Among Us." Bishop Howze spoke on the working of the Holy Spirit in our lives. Shannon Maggio, Student Council president, introduced the theme. Jenny Dagnall, Jenny Keel, and Catherine Ohman, juniors, assisted in the readings.

Representatives from Bay Catholic Elementary and St. Stanislaus College also attended the Mass and assisted in the offertory procession. Musicians were Mary Howard from Bay Catholic and Crystal Eldringhoff from OLA. The Bishop, priests, and principals from BCE, OLA and SSC were hosted at a luncheon provided by St. Stanislaus.

Thoughts of chestnuts grow as harvest nears

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

While it's still too early in the season to be humming "chestnuts roasting on an open fire, Jack Frost ripping at your nose" it won't be long before it's Chestnut harvest time in Mississippi.

For almost 20 years I've been observing some Chinese chestnut trees near my home, and the spiny burrs are getting large and will soon be splitting and shedding the shiny brown nuts.

I happen to live on Chestnut Drive, appropriately named for the trees planted by the developer back in the 1960s. These Chinese chestnut trees thrived with little or no care and annually produced a crop of nuts that local people once gathered every fall.

Unfortunately, several years ago most of the trees were sacrificed for a parking lot. A clear demonstration what when you remove half of the root system of an established tree, the tree is going to die, but that's another story.

Chestnut production in the United States isn't near what it was before chestnut blight wiped out almost every American chestnut tree in existence. The fungus, introduced into the country in the late 1800s had killed all but a few trees by the 1950s.

The wood lot across the road from my boyhood home in New Jersey was filled with large chestnut tree stumps. Occasionally a sprout shot up from a not completely dead stump, but it never got very large before it too succumbed to the blight. In the 1920s the U.S. Department of Agriculture imported seed of the Chinese chestnut which had some resistance to the blight. It was their hope to cross the American and Chinese chestnuts and develop a blight resistant American-type chestnut. As it turned out, the Chinese chestnut, though not a stately tree, produced a good crop of edible nuts and development efforts were turned to this tree. A planting of seedling Chinese chestnuts was made at Auburn University for research purposes in 1935. Out of this large seedling population, three varieties were selected and named AU-Cropper, AU-Homestead and AU-Leader. These varieties were released to the nursery industry in the early '80s. Other varieties of Chinese chestnuts are Nanking, Meiling, Kuling, Abundance and Crane.

Though chestnut and water chestnuts might be confused because of the similarity in name, they are not related in any way. The water chestnut is actually a sedge and certainly more closely related to yellow and purple nutsedge, two common and troublesome weeds. There is also a difference between chestnuts and most other nuts.

The hard-shelled nuts, such as pecans and walnuts, are high in fat and protein content while chestnuts are mostly water, starch and sugar. Once trees shed mature chestnuts, if not handled properly, the chestnuts have a relatively short life before they begin spoiling. The nuts should be spread out to dry and cure in a shaded, well-ventilated area for several days.

Small quantities can be stored in ventilated plastic bags (bags with small holes) in the refrigerator. The ventilation allows excess moisture to escape and prevents molding. Chestnuts also can be stored when mixed with lightly moistened peat moss and refrigerated in plastic bags. The temperature should be between 32 and 35 degrees F.

Commercial chestnut production in the United States is very limited, but Americans haven't lost their taste for chestnuts. Imports to the United States, mainly from Italy, approach 23 million pounds annually.

TIMBERLINE

By Mark Jamieson
County Forester

Chemicals, not frost, create fall colors

"It looks like someone took a paintbrush and painted the forest!" That must be one of the most common remarks heard each fall, as people marvel at the glorious spectrum of colors in the hardwood forests of Mississippi.

It's the brilliant oranges and yellows, reds and purples of the sweetgums and the deep scarlet of the blackgums and red oaks that inspire such enthusiasm. Autumn is a very special time to observe the woodland wonders of nature.

Despite appearances, nature doesn't paint with brush strokes. Paint-by-numbers might be the accurate comparison, because each tree has its own fall color bound-up in the chemical composition of the sap, which provides the "instructions" on what color to turn.

Trees change colors according to complex chemical formulas, according to the experts.

Depending on how much iron, magnesium, phosphorus or sodium is in the tree, and the acidity of the chemicals in the leaves, trees might turn amber, gold, red, orange or just fade from green to brown.

Several of the oaks, red maples and sumacs, for instance, have a slightly acidic sap which causes the leaves to turn bright red. The leaves of some varieties of ash, growing in areas where limestone is present, will turn a regal purplish-blue.

What prompts the change? Although people often credit "Jack Frost" for the color change, the weather actually has nothing to do with it. As the days grow shorter and the nights longer, a chemical clock inside the trees starts up, releasing a hormone which restricts the flow of sap to each leaf. As autumn progresses, the sap flow slows and chlorophyll, the chemical that gives the leaves their green color in the spring and summer, disappears. The residual sap becomes more concentrated as it dries, creating the colors of fall.

As the leaves die and fall to earth, the forest begins a winter-long slumber. The leaves, which through the warmer months convert carbon dioxide to oxygen, now take up another task, enriching the soil and providing nutrients for future generations of trees. And by the time this year's leaves fall, next spring's leaves are tightly wrapped in buds ready to unravel in the soft colors of spring.

This change is paralleled, though without such beauty and drama, in our pine forests. Softwoods lose their three-year-old needles in the fall. But some pine needles, plump with heavy resins and sap, drop to the earth year-round and are replaced with fresh ones. And in the spring, new shoots at the end of the limbs add a dash of emerald green to the awakening forest.

Just as trees prepare themselves for spring by putting forth buds, so do we prepare for future generations by planting forests. Last year, more than 61 million tree seedlings were planted in Mississippi, 24 for every man, woman and child in the state.

Today, nearly 6,000 concerned landowners in the Magnolia State manage their woodlands as registered Tree Farms. We are the national leader in Tree Farms.

As long as this concern for our forests remains high, we will have ample forest land for our recreation and timber needs, and plenty of opportunities to enjoy the glorious colors of a Mississippi autumn. We've got some pretty spots developing in this country as autumn deepens. Get out and take a drive.

And while you're enjoying it, I hope you'll make a personal commitment to help keep wild-fire out of the woods in the months between now and spring green-up time.

THIS LAND IS YOUR LAND

By Joe Pilet
Friendship Oak DAR
Conservancy Chairman

Protect trees, forests from damage by fire

"Conservation," said Gifford Pinchot, "is the wise use of our resources."

Of course, you don't know Pinchot. He happened to be the first chief of United States Forest Service. His co-workers in the year of establishment in 1909 had an impressive record of tree planting and they were concerned with our vital natural resources such as forests, water, minerals, fossil fuel, soil and wetlands and wildlife.

Are any of these resources renewable? Yes. The nation's forest and large acreage of private ownership are in the spotlight.

Good practices include replanting where indicated, also fertilization, harvesting of over-aged trees to avoid fire, insect damage and blight.

Forestry is big business, and our citizens should keep informed. Fire is the biggest danger in our area and it is our responsibility to guard against causing a fire that could get out of control.

Cigarettes should be put out before tossing them from car windows. Fires should never be started on a windy day. Cooperate with the fire department to obtain permission before starting a trash fire. Keep in mind that there are various permits restricting the size and location of planned fires.

Persons who happen to see a fire that threatens to get out of control should promptly notify the fire department. Uncontrolled fires are also a health problem causing damage to eyes, and smoke also causes in some an allergy. Large fires endanger wildlife. Protection of our land is "everybody's business." Please get involved. Don't allow Fire Prevention Week to become just another date to mark on the calendar. Let's let every day be fire awareness day.

An ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure.

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
The City of Bay St. Louis 'Neighborhood Campaign' serve citizens in several areas began on Genin Street last week.

The four goals of the special campaign are to develop neighborhood awareness, neighborhood watch, neighborhood clean up and neighborhood pride.

Residents of Genin, a block street, received letters from Mayor Edward A. Fausch urging residents to participate in the 'Neighborhood Campaign'.

A city work crew was on street this week trimming trees and doing minor street repairs. A dumpster was deposited

Hug-A-B

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Teddy bears now accompany Bay St. Louis Police officers in their vehicles while on patrol. The Hug-A-Bear Project is a nationwide effort by the Telephone Pioneers of America, according to Tim Ryan, assistant manager of the Gulf Coast District.

Police officers carry the small teddy bears in their vehicles and present them to children whenever they are involved in any incident.

Cpl. Don Ocho said, "Whenever a child is involved in an accident, domestic matter and other cases where there is a fire at the child's residence, he will
